The Times

WEEKLY EDITION.

PROFESSOR WOODROW WILSON, President of the Princeton University, speaking at the Annual Dinner of the Bankers of New York on January 17th, 1910, said, "To get the news of the world, I subscribe for the Weekly Edition of the London 'Times.'"

If you have a friend living in foreign lands or in the Over-Seas Dominions you could send him or her no more useful gift than an annual subscription to "The Times Weekly Edition." Presenting in condensed form the despatches of "The Times" correspondents from all countries, it deals with every phase of modern life, political, social, literary, and scientific. Women's interests are carefully studied. The service of sporting news appeals to all lovers of open-air life. In several ways not usually attempted by newspapers, "The Times Weekly Edition" endeavours to be of service to its readers. For instance, attached to the paper is a buying agency through which readers living in far distant lands can deal of the great London shops as though on the spot. There are three Editions each week—Early, Main, and Late.

The Annual Subscription to "The Times" Weekly Edition, postpaid to any part of the World, is

To the United Kingdom - Ten Shillings.
Overseas - Twelve Shillings and Sixpence.

SINGLE COPIES, TWOPENCE.

Including postage, HOME 2½d., ABROAD 3d.

Address all subscriptions to The Publisher, "The Times," Printing House Square, London. Make all cheques or money orders payable to "The Times," and cross Coutts and Co.
